EXPERIENCED HIRE

LOCATION: NEW YORK, NY

COMPANY

AVENCORE is an international boutique management consulting company, specialized in industrial performance and competitiveness. We focus on reducing the cost of products, services and investment projects, in a wide range of industries, acting on both a strategic and an organizational level. Our projects are, therefore, as diverse as our customer base of global market leaders and mid-range industrial companies. AVENCORE was created in 2009 and is currently on a high growth path.

ROLE

You will be part of a team of two to six AVENCORE specialists working at our client sites.

Working closely with our client's top and middle management, you will develop innovative and forward thinking solutions to a variety of industrial challenges that will lead to tangible and measurable results. Part of your responsibilities will also be to train, guide and inspire new AVENCORE recruits, embarking them and leading them to success as part of our shared growth dynamic. You will therefore develop your own management and leadership skills.

On a wider perspective, you will contribute to AVENCORE's business development, by building fruitful connections overtime with our clients as well as all stakeholders involved in the projects you will be assigned.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Graduate degree in Engineering.
- Excellent communication, presentation and networking skills.
- Previously held a managerial position in an industrial group and/or management consulting firm.
- A motivated, interactive and entrepreneurial personality.
- Willingness to travel across North America and internationally.
- Authorized to work in the United States.

Avencore's flat hierarchy, intrapreneurial culture and growth dynamic guarantee our employees' continuous high level involvement and career evolution. Join us and grow with us!
